

Interfaith Climate Covenant

As people of diverse faiths we hold in common a recognition of the sacredness and fragility of the Earth and all life upon it.

As people of diverse faiths we acknowledge our role as stewards of creation and our profound responsibility to care for that which has been entrusted to us ... and thus:

As people of diverse faiths we commit to care for all the life these ecosystems and these watersheds support.

As people of diverse faiths we commit to learn, advocate and work together to confront climate change and its impacts.

As people of diverse faiths we commit to stand in solidarity with all people who suffer from these impacts and to challenge injustice.

As people of diverse faiths we commit to reduce our carbon footprints, conserve water, and seek to realize the promise of a renewable energy future.

Just as drops of water, when combined, can create a powerful force, our united actions can surpass what we can accomplish alone.

One planet, Earth, in our care, irreplaceable, with sustenance and respect for all.